Recommendation: “Finding Church” by Wayne Jacobsen

What if the church Jesus is building looks more like wildflowers strewn across an alpine meadow than a walled garden with manicured hedges?

If, like many other people, you have questioned whether there is something more to Jesus’ church than the religious institutions we’ve inherited after two thousand years, you’ll want to read “Finding Church.”

"Finding Church" by Wayne Jacobsen was helpful to me. There are many around me that are firmly established in a new church while I am not ready to be bound to the "required" attendance and this book helped me feel less alone in that.

The book "Finding Church" by Wayne Jacobsen was a beautiful eye opener for me.

Definitely "Finding Church" by Wayne Jacobsen. I read it at a point in my journey where it was helpful in putting words around what I was already feeling...There is fellowship to be found outside the walls of churches and the Holy Spirit will faithfully guide us into that. I read it as an Audiobook on Audible.

I am currently reading this book too, and loving it!! Having gone to numerous churches over the years before becoming part of our fellowship, the thought of going to a different church was, frankly, depressing. This book is so uplifting! I love how the focus is on "the church" being relationships....people drawn by the Spirit of Christ within. We don't need man-made structure if we are fully trusting God.

Incredible book, that helps us think through what we're experiencing now. We were brought up not to open our eyes and ears to anything outside of the Bible; not the internet, not books, and certainly not go to another church. Just basically focus on our internal structure. But what we're learning [in books like this] is there's so much to really help us spiritually, and understand better what God has shared with us, and what God has given us, if we're willing to search for it. A good friend of mine said "be curious, God has things to show us, keep searching, learn more." It's not learn for learning sake, it's learning for understanding, it's learning to experience the joy, and the promise that's spoken to us.
